Thank you for using NComputing[®] products. These release notes contain important information regarding the current release of vSpace software for the L300. NComputing recommends you read the entire document thoroughly prior to installation.

Notes on this release include:

- This is the introduction version of vSpace for the L300. vSpace software support for the L300 can be found at www.ncomputing.com/downloads
- This vSpace release includes trial license and must be registered to allow L300 client operations beyond 1 hour of session time.
- Adobe flash support is currently an early release and improved support is underway. Youtube style browser pages should work fine but some full screen flash videos may delay before they play. If the delay is excessive just use the escape key and view in the normal size. Some flash videos with players embedded into more complex browser pages may not accelerate until expanded to full screen.
- The L300's video streaming and multimedia capabilities are optimized around Microsoft's popular Directshow API. For more information this see the following documents:
